CAMPAIGN MONEY SENT COMMITTEE

One Thousand Dollars From Fifth District—Activity Shown Locally.

Contributions to the national Democratic campaign fund are being made with decidedly more interest, and the Finance Committee for Virginia is now hopeful that the entire amount asked of this State—$25,000—regarded as small considering the fact that little need be spent at home and that it is the place of Governor Wilson's birth—can be raised.

The activity prevails in some sections only, while others are doing little in behalf of the cause. From the Fifth District there has been subscribed $1,000, which was raised under the direction of Eugene Withers, of Danville, chairman for that district. It has been forwarded to the Democratic National Committee, and credit has been given this State.

Through John Stewart Bryan, chairman for the Third District, the sum of $1,554.75 has been realized. Subscribers are at work, especially in Richmond, while there are a good many unsolicited subscriptions. It is beginning to be realized more every hour that the campaign cannot be carried to a successful conclusion unless the money is forthcoming.

Local committees have accomplished the following results:

John C. Easley's committee, $210; J. M. Atkinson's and R. L. Gordon's committee, $146.75; George Bryan's and R. E. Byrd's committee, $100; O. F. Wiegman's and R. L. Peter's committee, $48; James B. Wood's committee, $12; John L. Satterfield's and C. O. Saville's committee, $18.50; Davis Bottom's and E. C. Folke's committee, $144.50. Individual contributions amount to $504.75. Total, $1,554.75.

The Times-Dispatch has been received by the Wilson-Marshall campaign fund. The subscriptions secured by this paper now stand as follows:

Previously acknowledged, $748.95; R. W. Dodson, 2.50; Frank Fryer, 10.00; Cash, 10.00.

Total, $770.45.

WITHOUT REPRESENTATION

Attorneys for Taft Organization Lose Fight in California.

San Francisco, October 3.—President Taft will be without representation from California in the electoral college, and not a vote for him can be cast in the State, unless it be written in following a decision by the State Supreme Court to-day, under which electors pledged to him cannot appear on the November ballot as Republicans. The issue was presented in the form of an application by attorneys for the Taft Republican organization seeking to have permanent an alternative writ obtained some days ago, directing Frank C. Jordan, Secretary of State to designate, on the ballot as Republicans the presidential electors named by the Taft adherents. Attorney-General Webb for the Secretary of State filed a general denial of the allegations and a demurrer to the petition. He argued that the Republican party of California was not affiliated with the national party and was in no wise bound by the decisions of the Chicago convention; that the petition of the Taft men was supported by insufficient evidence and that the court lacked jurisdiction.

Whitlock Haled to Court.

A warrant charging the careless handling of an automobile and the killing of a dog belonging to Frank Rainey was served on Charles E. Whitlock, of 106 East Franklin Street, yesterday afternoon. The charges will be heard in Police Court this morning.

Suspected of a Felony.

Thomas Jackson, a negro youth of sixteen, was arrested last night as a suspicious character by Detective Sergeant Wren and Williams. Jackson is suspected of a felony.

STREET CARS ON A DIZZY JOY RIDE

Train of Trolleys Runs Amuck Down Seventh Street, but Nobody Suffers.

A "train" composed of three street cars began a wild and spectacular dash down North Seventh Street last night about 1:30 o'clock, ending when two left the track and smashed into a pole at Seventh and Main Streets, and the third raced down the hill to Arch Street, plowed through a telegraph pole and halted on the edge of the canal. Telegraph poles, a mail wagon which was in the path of the runaways, and window glass were the only sufferers. The crew, consisting of F. J. McCulloch and H. C. Lowery, motorman, and C. L. Foust, conductor, escaped unhurt.

The triple-header was made up of cars of the Virginia Railway and Power Company, Nos. 606, 633 and 655, which were being taken over to Petersburg for service there. No. 606, an open car, was towing the two closed ones behind. They were equipped with hand brakes only and the crew was on the first car. On nearing Main Street on Seventh, the motorman applied the brakes to the first two cars, but the grade of the hill was so severe, the tracks so slippery, and the momentum of the brakeless cars behind so great, that the first car was practically lifted off the track when its wheels struck the switch at the corner.

Divided at Main.

On leaving the rails, the first car headed down Main Street, pulling the second off the track with it, but the coupling connecting the second and third broke, and the last of the string continued under its own headway across Main Street and down Seventh still on the tracks. The first car headed down Main so abruptly that it whipped the trailer around like the lash of a whip, smashing with terrific force into an iron street car pole on the southeast corner of Main and Seventh. The stout pole was bent double by the blow, almost every window in the car shattered and the rear platform all but carried away. The breaking of the pole allowed the heavily charged trolley wire to sag, and the police were soon busy keeping the crowd out of the danger zone. Street car traffic on Main Street was held up for some time, but the company rushed a work crew to the scene and soon had the tracks clear.

The rear car, gathering up speed as it crossed Main Street, coasted down Seventh Street toward the river in a mad flight that meant destruction to any vehicle that happened to be crossing its path. But Seventh Street was remarkably clear at the time, the gates of the railway crossing were up, and the runaway shot across the bridge with a racket that brought people scurrying into the street. A freight train across Seventh Street at the moment would have caused a wreck. At the sharp curve in the track at Arch and Seventh Streets, the runaway left the rails, plowed gaily along the sidewalk for a hundred yards, cutting off a telegraph pole as clean as a whistle and halted on the brink of the canal. The car was a wreck. The engine at Seventh and Main was struck by the second car, but was not badly damaged.

MANDAMUS REFUSED

McDonald Lee Wins His Own Case in City Circuit Court.

Application was made to Judge R. Carter Scott yesterday in the City Circuit Court by Thomas Moore for a mandamus to compel W. McDonald Lee, State Fish Commissioner, to grant him certain fishing grounds in Hampton Roads. It appeared that he was entitled to a tract of ten acres, and desired that they be laid out in an oblong strip, while the Fish Commissioner had directed that the plot be made in a compact square tract. The application for mandamus was refused, with costs on the applicant. Mr. Lee, who had represented himself, did not want any costs, and when S. Gordon Cummings, counsel for the petitioner, asked leave to withdraw certain exhibits, consent was given for withdrawal of all the papers, the application having been refused, and no formal record was therefore made of the proceedings.

Sale of Church Continued.

An order was entered yesterday in the City Circuit Court appointing Mary M. McGuffee trustee for St. James Protestant Episcopal Church, in place of W. Minor Woodward, and confirming the order of sale of the old church property at Fifth and Marshall Streets to Isaac and Moses Thalhimer and David May.

Arrested for Assault.

Richard Blumhagen, colored, charged with assaulting Charles Gimbali, colored, was arrested last night, and will appear in Police Court this morning.

NO ACTION TAKEN YET BY TURNBULL

Has Not Asked for Meeting of State Committee—Letter Is on Way.

There is so far no indication that Representative Robert Turnbull intends to prosecute the appeal note by his attorneys from the decision of the Fourth District Democratic Committee in awarding the certificate of nomination to Judge Walter A. Watson. Although State Chairman J. Taylor Elyson yesterday notified Mr. Turnbull's son and attorney that he was ready to issue a hurry call for a meeting of the State committee, provided the contestant were ready, the request for a meeting did not come.

A letter is on its way from Edward R. Turnbull, Jr., the son of the Congressman, to Chairman Elyson. It will be on hand this morning, and may possibly contain some indication of what is to happen.

Two letters from Mr. Turnbull, received by Mr. Elyson yesterday, merely asked for information as to the procedure in the event it is decided to take an appeal. It was stated in one of these that it will not be possible to serve notice of contest on the Fourth District Committee, which must first handle the case, until to-day. Inquiry was made as to whether the State committee, in view of the limited time, would not take up the entire question, without waiting, under the law, for a preliminary contest before the district committee.

To all questions Chairman Elyson replied by telegram that if the Turnbull side desired it, and would be ready, he would call a meeting of the Democratic State Committee by wire, for next Tuesday night, in this city.

The only response was the following telegram:

Lawrenceville, Va., October 3, 1913. J. Taylor Elyson.

State Chairman, Richmond, Va.

Your telegram received. Do not take any action until you get my letter.

(Signed) E. R. TURNBULL, JR.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS ELECT OFFICERS FOR YEAR

Richmond Council, No. 395, Knights of Columbus, held its annual election of officers Wednesday night, which resulted as follows:

Grand knight, James L. O'Keefe; recorder, Curtis M. Dozier; financial secretary, Walter J. Conaty; treasurer, Henry G. Fitzpatrick; chancellor, John W. Nokes; advocate, J. T. Lewis; warden, Henry J. Keck; assistant warden, Arthur Van Buren; inside guard, James McCue; outside guard, J. P. Melvin.

The newly elected officers assume their duties November 1. Other business transacted included the completion of arrangements for the celebration of Columbus Day, which will be marked by an entertainment at the home, on Grace Street, Monday evening, October 14, to which the general public is invited. Plans were also effected for the exemplification of the third degree, to take place here on October 21, under the supervision of John J. O'Neal, of Jersey City.

Suit on Trial.

Trial began yesterday in the Law and Equity Court of the suit of Louis Chaplan against Thomas E. Staggs. The hearing will probably occupy several days.

Permanent Progress

We quote an extract from a letter received a few days ago from a county in South Central Virginia, because we believe it reflects the healthy growth of many other sections throughout the State. It follows:

"There has been decided improvement in this county during the past five years. Farmers show great improvement in the condition of their farms, and the public roads are beginning to show the result of our labors in that direction, while the marked progress made in the public school system here is most encouraging."

This man recognizes the progress which his county has made in vital things—the progress which is permanent. That is the kind of growth our city is working for, and our State—the kind of permanent prosperity which is our endeavor to help YOU attain.

RABIES KILLS ONE; FIVE IN DANGER

Negro Child in Lunenburg Succumbs to Agonies of Hydrophobia.

RUSH FAMILY TO RICHMOND

Father, Brothers and Sisters May Develop Disease at Any Moment.

Another victim of rabies—the second in Virginia this year—has gone to a horrible death, and her parents, sisters and brothers are in imminent danger of developing the same disease. The survivors are in Richmond receiving the Pasteur treatment at the offices of the State Health Department. They may be attacked at any moment, since they were exposed to infection at the same time with the one who succumbed.

This time a colored family is the victim. The parties live at Kenbridge, in Lunenburg County, and were brought to Richmond early yesterday morning by Dr. T. C. Harris, of that town. He rushed them to the State Health Department, where State Bacteriologist Meade Ferguson treated them. In view of the urgency of the case, he administered very large doses.

Appeared Last Sunday.

Dr. Harris was summoned last Sunday to attend Lillian Bridgforth, the four-year-old child of Isom Bridgforth, of Kenbridge. The child appeared highly nervous, but, having no suspicion of the cause, Dr. Harris merely noted symptoms of fever, with possibility of meningitis. He went to the house again Monday morning, finding the patient no better. Returning Monday night, he noticed a chest spasm at the sight of a glass of water. This gave the first inkling of the presence of hydrophobia, and on making inquiries he found the source of infection.

Relation of the child's dying agonies is too horrible to be put in print. Spasm succeeded spasm. The little girl, and her mother, attacked by the dog, and suffered terrible things before death mercifully came, early Tuesday morning. The body was buried Wednesday, and the family hurried at once to Richmond.

Entire Family Infected.

Isom Bridgforth and his four living children were all bitten by the dog which gave the infection to Lillian, while his wife was bitten by the child herself, on her deathbed.

Neighbors made up the necessary fund of the trip to Richmond. A room has been rented here, and the family will remain three weeks. In the meantime, the man will work. All save the mother will be carefully watched. The complete history of infection has not been traced, but the immediate source is known. Isom Bridgforth had a pet puppy, with which all his children played. Some four or five weeks ago, he was awakened by a noise which indicated the puppy was being attacked by a larger dog. He went out and chased the intruder away, but a few minutes later heard what he supposed was the strange dog in a fight with an animal belonging to a neighbor. The next morning he heard that still another dog was not far away had been attacked. The two older dogs became sick. One of them was tied and the other shut up, and both died. Dr. Harris has not heard that either of them bit any one.

Bear Marks of Bites.

The puppy became ill, and, although trying to be affectionate with the children, frequently snapped at and bit them. His teeth were sharp and children were careless. All of the four brought here yesterday shows scars caused by his bites. At last the puppy was tied up and soon died. While handling him, Isom Bridgforth was also bitten.

The father and four children are equally liable to contract the disease at any moment. It is possible the dead child, being younger, was affected first because of a weaker nervous system. The mother, bitten only this week, is probably safe with the Pasteur treatment.

Counting these arrivals, exactly 100 cases of persons bitten by dogs found to be mad have been treated by Dr. Ferguson since October 1, 1911—one year and three days. There are records of ninety-one who have been treated and discharged, while three more were under treatment October 1. The six new cases make 100.

Convict Accounts Approved.

Accounts submitted by J. B. Wood, Superintendent of the Penitentiary, for care of county convicts engaged in the various convict road forces were approved by Judge R. Carter Scott yesterday in the City Circuit Court, amounting for the past three months to $7,353.13. The amounts were certified to the State Auditor of Public Accounts to be charged against the various counties and cities.

OUTSIDERS CAN'T BID ON ARMORY

Council Committee Bars Out-of-Town Contractors on City's $105,000 Job.

LIKELY TO INCREASE COST

Beck and Architect Admit They Never Saw Similar Bid in Technical Magazine.

Only Richmond contractors will be permitted to bid on the erection of the new First Virginia Regiment Armory. The Council Committee on Grounds and Buildings barred all outside competition last night when the detailed drawings and specifications were presented by Messrs. Carneal & Johnson, architects. They were referred to the Building Inspector to advertise for bids, the advertisement to state that bids would be received only from bona fide Richmond contractors and the architects were instructed to issue copies of the plans and information on which to base bids only to known Richmond contractors. The action was taken on motion of Mr. Atkinson, who held that too much construction work had gone to outside contractors, and that in the case where the city was to pay the bill, only city people should be allowed to compete. The armory is to cost $105,000.

May Cause Increase in Cost.

Mr. Umlauf advocated calling for general bids thus gaining the benefit of a general competition in price, but reserving the right to reject any or all proposals, thus enabling the committee later to award to any concern it might select. It was suggested that the price would be much higher if there were no general competition, and that with the volume of work already on hand, the erection of the building would be much delayed by the limitation imposed by Mr. Atkinson's motion prevailed. Building Inspector Beck said he had never seen an advertisement for proposals in any technical magazine or building journal with such a limitation, and Architect Carneal agreed that he knew of no such limitation in asking for bids in any previous instance.

A committee from the City School Board, headed by J. G. Corley, appeared in regard to suitable quarters for the School Board after January 1, when it has been notified to vacate its rooms in the City Hall. The plan is to move the City Attorney's offices into the rooms now occupied by the School Board; to move the Special Accountant into the rooms now used by the Assistant City Attorney, and to utilize the present offices of the City Attorney, City Accountant and the Street Committee room for the Administrative Board.

Mr. Corley stated that after conference the School Board had decided that the old High School Building, now occupied by John Smith School, could be refitted for headquarters and for a general storage place for school equipment at a cost of $6,000, and an appropriation of that amount was recommended to the Council. Building Inspector Beck approved the plan, saying that that amount would put the building in first-class shape for office purposes.

A petition from the various parkkeepers of the city for an increase in salary of $25 per month each was referred to a subcommittee consisting of Messrs. Mitchell, Atkinson and Melton. Objection was made to present inequalities, some parkkeepers having house rent, fuel, lights and other perquisites, while others have nothing except their salaries.

On report of the City Engineer the committee recommended to the Council a special appropriation of $1,500 for purchase of young trees to be planted in the streets.

The bid of J. B. Myers of $265 for raising the keeper's house in Joseph Bryan Park two feet was accepted, and the work ordered. Keeper Lane dwelling is a new one of 15,000 and has complained of dampness and bad location.

In a letter N. W. Bowe & Son offered to sell the city the lot and grove of trees at Lombardy and Grove Avenue for park purposes at $125 per front foot. The offer was rejected.

Two Judgments Entered.

Judgment was entered yesterday in the Law and Equity Court in the case of Robert W. Stuart, administrator of the estate of George Ballash, against the Old Dominion Development Company, of New York, for $150, and in the case of the same as administrator of Norman Cade against the Old Dominion Development Company for $250. The cases grew out of records kept at the Gayton Mines in Henrico County.

GRINNAN RESIGNS; MONCURE NAMED

Governor Issues Commission To-day to New Judge of Chancery Court.

A commission will be issued this morning by Governor Mann to William A. Moncure to be judge of the Chancery Court of the city of Richmond. The resignation of Judge Daniel Grinnan, effective to-day, was received by the Governor yesterday.

Indication of Judge Grinnan's intention to resign from the bench was given some months ago, and soon thereafter a meeting of the bar of Richmond was held, at which Mr. Moncure was found to be the choice of the majority for the judgeship. The resignation to this effect was conveyed to the Governor last Thursday by Chairman H. R. Pollard.

Judge Grinnan, who is to resume practice, has served two terms on the bench of the Chancery Court, taking high rank with the bar and the public. He retired with the good will of those who have had business before him.

His successor, Mr. Moncure, is a member of the law firm of Smith, Moncure & Gordon. He has been for years a successful practitioner in this city.

"FRILL" CLASSES HAVE MODEL BOOTH

Fair Exhibit of School Manual Training Department Shows High Craftsmanship.

As proof positive that craftsmanship is not perishing from the face of the earth, the manual training department of the city public schools, is installing in Industrial Hall at the State Fair, a large booth, the walls, timbers, as well as the entire equipment of which, were fashioned in the school shops. In point of beauty of construction and artistic execution it compares favorably with the best professional work in the building.

The booth, which is large and roomy, is built on the mission lines. The paneling and decorations carry out the mission idea and give evidence of thorough training in the architectural craft. All woodwork is stained to a uniform walnut brown. The work of installing the exhibits will begin tomorrow. These will include specimens of manual training workmanship, as well as products from related departments.

Brewery in Operation.

Near the southern entrance to the building, a local brewing company will have on exhibition a model brewery which will operate daily, in charge of a trained brewer. A force of workmen were engaged yesterday in installing the miniature plant, which is equipped on lines followed by the largest and most modern breweries in the country.

The model will be operated by electricity and will have a capacity of two gallons in eight hours. The fact that the product will be first-class beer—the kind that is sold over the counter for real money, will necessitate the presence of a government officer to keep tabs on the output. The local revenue officer will designate a government guager who will keep an eye on the toy brewery to see that the United States internal revenue laws do not suffer. There will be no free samples.

Will Nab Whip Friends.

From county police headquarters it was announced yesterday that officers will be given strict instructions to arrest every one who abuses the whip privilege. Much complaint was registered last year by visitors to the State Fair, who suffered from the activities of brainless people who paraded the midway striking everybody within reach with toy whips. No restriction can be placed on the sale of these whips, but the evil will be corrected by a stringent enforcement of the order against their abuse.

This particular nuisance, it is stated, has led to more arrests than any other State Fair abuse combined. In some instances, the officers claim, women have been struck by thoughtless paraders who were forthwith attacked by escorts. Several general fights were the result.

Sheriff Kemp will shortly announce the list of special county policemen who will co-operate with the detail from the City Police Department, in keeping order at the State Fair. The county force will number sixteen, and will probably be captained by Deputy Sheriff W. W. Synon.

Knocks Down Man After He Is Hit Twice by Bullet.

Frankfort, Ky., October 3.—When Patrick Haley drew a revolver and began firing at Mayor J. H. Polagrove, of Frankfort, this afternoon the Mayor charged him, knocked him down twice and had thoroughly subdued him when Haley was placed under arrest. One bullet lodged in the Mayor's leg and another passed through his hat. He had represented Haley's wife in a divorce suit.

GRINNAN RESIGNS; TWO COMPANIES MONCURE NAMED

Governor Issues Commission To-day to New Judge of Chancery Court.

A commission will be issued this morning by Governor Mann to William A. Moncure to be judge of the Chancery Court of the city of Richmond. The resignation of Judge Daniel Grinnan, effective to-day, was received by the Governor yesterday.

Indication of Judge Grinnan's intention to resign from the bench was given some months ago, and soon thereafter a meeting of the bar of Richmond was held, at which Mr. Moncure was found to be the choice of the majority for the judgeship. The resignation to this effect was conveyed to the Governor last Thursday by Chairman H. R. Pollard.

NEW AUTO PATROL READY TO GET YOU

Goes Out on Trial Spin, Representing Last Word in Free Rides for Drunks.

The most recent addition to the municipal automobile fleet, a shining new patrol wagon representing the last word in free rides for drunks, was tuned up and given its trial spin yesterday afternoon for the benefit of Major Werner and other police officials. The new car, which is to be used in the First District, is a powerful monster of fifty horsepower and has been especially geared for climbing the hills that decorate the East End.

Although in the smoothest running order, as shown yesterday, the fancy "Black Maria" will not be put into commission until the opening of the State Fair on Monday. It will get its christening in assisting helpless drinkers home from the fair lot to an iron bed in a clean iron cell. The patrol will be stationed at the Fair Grounds for the entire week and will be given over exclusively to doing duty between the fair and the city. Its drunken capacity—or rather its capacity for drunks—is enormous. The mechanic in charge yesterday avowed that twenty "stews" could be stored in the upholstered tonneau and carried up the Broad Street hill.

After the fair is over the cart will be stationed at the First Police Station, replacing the ancient and honorable horse-drawn vehicle of that district. While the wheelbase of the new machine is about the same as that of the patrol attached to the Second Station, the body of the new wagon is considerably larger and offers undreamed-of conveniences for wheeling bums to the lockup. It is equipped with a powerful searchlight that can be moved in every direction, either up or down and to every side; a frightful gong, a horn and a fender to push the crowd out of the way. The wagon stung the department the next time to $5.00.

Major Werner and a party were taken out for a spin yesterday afternoon and the new patrol put through its paces. The major goes on bond for the assertion that it pulled a steep hill at twenty-five miles an hour and touched, for a police officer, unmentionable rates of speed on the level.
